

ALL SAINTS' NURSERY

All Saints' Nursery is a kindergarten located in Poole, in the beautiful woods close to Western Road in Bournemouth.

The kindergarten is a small lovely building with two main rooms, a small and a bigger one. The bigger one is connected to an outside place where the children can play free with branches and other natural materials.

In the bigger room the children do some activities like painting, drawing and playing with different toys. Instead, in the smaller room children hang their coats and leave their personal stuff.

During the lunch-time they have lunch there but the school does not provide lunch: every child brings his own packed lunch from home.

CHILDREN'S ROUTINE

47 children, 26 each day, they don't come every day
but they come on different days
Every morning they arrive and then have free play where they can choose what to do, then they sing together and learn something new. Before lunch they play outside doing lots of nice physical activities, then have lunch together and then they have more free time (like in the morning).

TEACHER

The best outcome of the teacher's job is when the hardest children settle in and separate from their parents. The most challenging aspect of this job is the financial aspect. The most stressful aspect regards the different expectations between the government and parents. The best memory she has is the show at the end of the year; the last one was a fashion show

In a week she works 5 days. They open for 38 weeks (9.5 months). She works also during holidays. The relationship with the children needs to be close and warm. The children learn more when they feel safe, secure and loved.
